The Steel faceplate is anti-theft with no visible fixings, the Help point Emergency and Information Point engravings come as standard or can be customised to the customers' requirements. This range is IP rated and comes with many features from speech synthesise prompts, visual indicators, line and mains powered, remote programming, software configurable, call timeout and auto clear down plus many more.

MD Robin Horsham said "This is an exciting time as we are able to bring a totally new comprehensive range of products to the channel. The flexibility of what we can offer is quite amazing. Being manufactured here in the UK it gives us the ability to build exactly what the customer wants, with very little or in many case no extra costs outside of those we quote. I am very proud that this range is British manufactured, it is an extremely competitively priced product and is off the shelf, reducing lead times to a minimum. We offer an Automatic remote monitoring service (ARMS) which informs you if the telephone requires attention. This can work with or without a computer based management system. We are working on models with GSM and VoIP capabilities to be with us very soon"
